WILSON LOYAL, NELSON INSISTS

President Says Foreign-Born Citizens Must Give Unwavering Allegiance.

Washington, D. C., July 14.—President Wilson today told a citizenship convention here today that the American government must insist that foreigners becoming citizens remain loyal even if they are not pleased with the way affairs are conducted. Loyalty means nothing, he declared, unless it is coupled with self sacrifice. He added that Americans cannot teach loyalty unless they practice it.

The president discussed at length the problem of Americanizing foreign born citizens. His words were enthusiastically applauded by a large gathering of men and women educators interested in the instruction of new citizens meeting here under the auspices of the naturalization bureau of the department of labor.

He praised the object of the convention, saying it was not fair to allow multitudes of people from foreign lands to come into this nation without giving them the same rights and responsibilities which their intimate instruction will show them the object of America.

Native born Americans were warned by the president to examine themselves carefully to see whether they have burning in them the true light of America which they expect to show these foreigners.

Foreign travel was suggested as the best cure for those inclined to boast too much of American superiority of America.

Should Maintain Good Government.
The president said in part:

"We ought to be careful to maintain a government at which the immigrant can look with the closest scrutiny and to which he should be at liberty to address this question: You declare this to be a land of liberty and of equality and justice, have you made it so by your law? We ought to be able in our day schools, in our night schools and in every other method of instructing these people to show them that has been our endeavor. We cannot conceal from them the fact that we are just as human as any other nation; that we are just as selfish; that there are just as many mean people among us as there are noble ones. We must, just as many people here who want to take advantage of other people as you can find in any other nation, but our object is to get these people in harness and see to it that they do not do any damage."

Power of Force.
"America has built up a great body of wealth. America has become from the physical point of view, one of the most powerful nations in the world, a nation which, if it took the pains to do so, could build up that power into one of the most formidable instruments of force, but which has no other idea than to use that force for ideal objects and not for self-aggrandizement."

Take Courage Not to Strike.
"This process of Americanization is going to be a process of self examination, a process of purification, a process of reeducation to the things which America represents, and is proud to represent. And it takes a great deal more courage and steadfastness to represent the things which America represents than it does to represent anything else. It is easy to lose your temper, and hard to keep it. It is easy to strike, and sometimes very difficult to refrain from striking, and I think you will agree with me that it is just as justifiable in being proud of doing the things that are hard to do, and not the things that are easy."

Should Exalt Thoughtfulness.
"You do not settle things quickly by taking what seems to be the quickest way to settle them. You may win the competition, but you lose the more profound and inextinguishable and, therefore, what I believe America should exalt above everything else, the soberest of thoughtfulness and sympathy and vision as against the crooked impulses of mankind. No nation can win without vision, and no vision will exalt a nation except the vision of real liberty and real justice and purity of conduct."

ALLIED PUSH IS JUST BEGINNING

Premier of Britain Would Postpone Holidays and Make Munitions.

London, Eng., July 12.—The Entente allied offensive on the western front is only in its beginning, declared Premier Asquith today in announcing the house of commons that the government had decided to ask workers to forego their August holidays because of the demand for munitions in France. He expressed conviction that the workmen would cooperate in this plan so as to make it plain to Great Britain's foes that the offensive in its present intensity of bombardment and assault, would if necessary, be "continued indefinitely."

The premier also announced that by royal proclamation the August bank holidays would be postponed, and he appealed to all classes for postponement of all holiday until further and definite progress of the offensive had been secured.

Other Holidays Postponed.
The premier recalled that the June and July holidays had been postponed in view of the urgent military requirements of the moment, and he invited acknowledgment on the part of the government, a very full response by the workers to his appeal at that time.

Since then, he added, a great and very favorable change in the military situation has been produced by the allied offensive now in progress.

Munition Supply Required.
"This offensive," he continued, "is only in its beginning, and it necessarily requires the continuous supply of munitions of all kinds. From the success achieved, we have been able to gauge the paramount necessity of avoiding even the slightest risk of restriction of the use of munitions in the field, not merely in the weeks immediately before us, but until our objective is achieved. In the opinion of the commander in chief, there must be no slackening in the output, even for a moment."

Where health required, continued the premier, leave of absence would be granted, and the government held itself responsible for seeing that the holidays were merely postponed and not abandoned.

Representatives of the admiralty and the ministry of munitions, he added, would meet representatives of the workmen and employers to secure their cooperation, and he was sure this would be forthcoming and that their forces in the field would "be given encouragement and the keenest encouragement in the certain knowledge that the present intensity of bombardment and assault will, if necessary, be continued indefinitely."
